MORE FROM WOOD.

Not just an elegant surface...

Using camera technology Feelwood lines up the texture pressed into the surface with the decor below. The result is a deep woodgrain texture indistinguishable from timber or veneer but with the benefits of being a durable and low maintenance material.

The Feelwood decors are available in a range of EGGER products; laminate, melamine faced panels, edging and compact laminate. Offering a suitable material for all requirements and applications as a cost effective alternative to solid timber.

Not just a durable option, Feelwood also requires no ongoing maintenance or the preparation normally required for veneer or timber alternatives.

Authentic yet modern...

Using traditional and rustic decors in a contemporary and modern way is now very much in demand in both domestic and commercial interiors. The ST37 Feelwood Rift decors are ideal for this trend, featuring deep knots and cracks which are accentuated by the synchronised texture.

The four ST28 Feelwood Nature finishes are rustic decors featuring heavy knots and delicate planking. They offer a sandblasted Oak finish with a subtle interplay of colour ideally suited to the trend for natural materials.

Classically Elegant

ST29 Feelwood Ambiance uses the interplay of deep texture with realistic gloss levels to create a dramatic eye catching surface ideal for large scale applications.

The elm design is suited to book matched projects where the open grain pattern can run across a number of doors or surfaces.

What if we told you that this isn't real timber?

This is Feelwood...

EGGER's Feelwood decors are produced using a deep synchronised texture innovation where camera technology aligns texture with the decor finish.

The result is a deep woodgrain texture indistinguishable from timber or veneer, meeting consumer demands for on trend natural looking materials.

Using realistic gloss levels and deep synchronised textures, an eye-catching tactility is created, producing the most authentic range of finishes to date.

The evolution of texture...

Never before have our decors looked so real.

Decors have evolved and print and texture have developed through new technology. Feelwood is a new generation of surfaces demonstrating just how far woodgrain reproductions have changed.

Offering both the visual and tactile effect expected from modern innovative finishes, Feelwood meets these demands with sandblasted timber effects as well as cracked Oak finishes and elegant open Elms.

Keeping up with consumer expectations

Design inspiration is now more accessible than ever, apps and websites offer consumers the latest interior trends and inspiration. End users want the latest on trend finishes and they would like them immediately.

The Feelwood decors offer a cost effective alternative and practical solution to the demand for these natural finishes and timber. New areas of the market can be entered by creating a high value look with a lower cost material.

ST27 and ST28 decors are available as a single sided option on MFC. This cost saving alternative to the double sided decorative panel is ideal for areas where only one side of the board is visible.
